Family legend, as told by Chas Washington Wood, Daniel's grdson, to his wife, Mary Lee Flinn; Daniel killed toward the end of Civil War. He was following RR tracks home to AL &, in Atlanta, was struck by a train. He was deaf from the sounds of cannons firing while he served in Lee's artillery in Virginia so he could not hear orders to follow them. Daniel bur in Atlanta, GA with veterans of the Battle of Atlanta.

(Ruby Lee Flinn Woods did gen'y)

(As of Jan 2000, his Civil War records can't be found. Elliot Toole, his parents & grdmom, visited the cemetery when he was small, but he does not remember exactly where in or near Atlanta. The family had always thought Daniel served with Robert E. Lee, but it could have been Lovard Lee's Co from Alabama. See notes for Martin's other sons by his 2nd wife.

Notes for Harriet Marley: Lois Wood Williams

remembers Harriet from when she was a small child, but not enough to remember anything personal about her. Lois has vague memories of going to a farm where a real old woman lived with lots of people present & several members of the family, including the real old woman, smoking corncob pipes. The kids were barefooted and, in many cases, dirty. Lois remembers the smell of the barns & animal lots -- pig pens, chicken coops, & pastures. (Note: Such is the case of a city girl in the country! No doubt she was dressed in her Sunday best for visiting!)
